

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1835.

The Democratic members of the Legislature meet this evening, at 7 o'clock, in the Lobby over the Land Office.

The next Presidency.—An opposition paper, after announcing that Mr Clay has consented to be again a candidate for the Presidency, if such be the wish of his friends, says—

"It has been asserted that Mr Clay would not again consent to become a candidate for the Presidency; as it is evident his chance of success is indeed desperate;—and we did hope that he and his friends would throw all their influence into the scale of DANIEL WEBSTER."

"Desperate" as is Mr Clay's chance of success, his ground supporters—who paid him for deserting the Democratic party, by making him their chief—must not think to shake him off so easily. They have run him two heats, and as "turn about is fair play," they have no reason to complain if he runs them as many more—and when the account is thus fairly balanced, they will all find themselves where they set out, at the bottom of the hill. "Desperate" as are Mr Clay's prospects, it is questionable whether they are more so than the best of that herd of office-hunters whom the opposition, in different parts of the country, have proposed for the next Presidency. No man who fails to receive the nomination of the National Democratic Convention, can be successful at the coming election. Be he a recent Democrat, with the mark of a Judas fresh upon his forehead—or an original Federalist, glorying in the principles of the Hartford Convention—or a cautious twaddler, veering with every breeze—or a precious hypocrite, mingling his advocacy of the cause of religion with prayers for his own political advancement, his fate will be the same.

The Democratic party are now in power—the reins of government are in their hands—and if there are any who think them weak enough to sacrifice their ascendancy by intestine divisions, they are to be pitied for their ignorance. They know too well the worth of their present position, to idly sacrifice it upon the altar of personal ambition—and they know equally well, that it can only be maintained by union, harmony, and concentrated action. It makes but little difference to them, therefore, whether the opposition run this man or that—one candidate or twenty—federalists or fence-men—recent deniers or religious bigots—they will go against one, or all, or either, with equal determination, and with equal success.

The Democratic party have not elected ANDREW JACKSON to the Presidency for two successive terms, with the expectation or intention that the principles upon which he has conducted his administration, are to retire, with him, to the Hermitage. They had a higher aim—it was to establish on a permanent basis, the principles which brought him into office, and which he brought with him into office—and those who think to defeat it by an appeal to personal feelings or sectional interests, "treason without their host"—and in publishing these expectations to an intelligent people, they only betray their folly and expose their ignorance.

The Bank.—From a communication made to Congress, on the 29th of December, by the Secretary of the Treasury, it appears that the Bank still persists in excluding the government directors from participating in a knowledge of its affairs. In pursuance of directions from the President of the United States, communicated to the government directors in October last, they requested and demanded of the officers of the Bank the use of several of its books, necessary to ascertain and furnish for the President, a knowledge of the gross amount of the profits of the Bank for each half year since Jan. 1, 1832. The use of these books was peremptorily refused—and the government directors were told by the officer in attendance that the books were locked up in the vault, that the key of the vault was in his pocket, and that he should not deliver to them either the key or the books. The consequence was, they were unable to furnish the desired information. Such acts of gross presumption on the part of the Bank, towards the head of the government which created it, need no comment—the people will note that even in its expiring agonies, it presumes to set itself above all law and all control.

Connecticut.—The democracy of this State appear to be working in good earnest. A State Convention assembled at Middletown on the 28th ult. of which STANLEY H. MINER was President, and S. R. WIGHTMAN Secretary. The candidates nominated were the same as last year, viz: Henry W. Edwards for Governor; Ebenezer Stoddard for Lt. Governor, Jeremiah Brown for Treasurer, and Royal R. Heman for Secretary. The Committee appointed for that purpose reported an address and a series of resolutions worthy of the occasion. The resolutions approve of the measures of the administration generally, and of the holding of a national convention for the nomination of a President and Vice President, and provide for the election by the convention of eight delegates to that body—in pursuance of which, the following gentlemen were chosen delegates, and entrusted with the power to fill any vacancies which may occur, viz: Gideon Welles, Noyes Darling, John T. Adams, Sands Adams, Andrew T. Judson, John C. Smith, jr. and Orrin Holt.

Paintings.—In the debate which took place on the resolution for employing four American artists to paint five additional pictures for the Rotunda of the capitol, Mr Adams expressed a doubt "whether four native artists could be found competent to the undertaking."—A writer in the New York Mirror takes the Ex-President in hand for an assertion so disparaging to our native artists, and enumerates as fully competent to the task, Washington Allston, R. W. Weir, Henry Inman, S. F. B. Morse, John Vanderlyn, and John Neagle. "The writer omits Thomas Sully and Chas. R. Leslie, because the first, though an American painter, is not a native American; the second, though by accident born in London, might be considered an American in every respect, but that he has virtually renounced the country, (without the shadow of blame falling on him for so doing,) and if selected as one of the four, his picture must be the product of London, by a London artist, born in London."

The Washington Globe of Thursday last contains a long report from the Committee of the House of Representatives on Military Affairs, in relation to the Military Academy at West Point. It concludes thus:—

"The Committee beg leave to remark in concluding their report, that if to owe its origin to Washington, the father of his country; to have been sustained and fostered by the countenance and support of other framers of our constitution, and their associates in the public service; if to have redeemed and elevated the character of the Army, and increased the national renown; if to have multiplied and cemented the bonds of union; if to have proved itself clear of having afforded just cause for the imputations of exclusiveness and favoritism; if these circumstances can entitle any institution to the continued liberal aid of the National Legislature the Military Academy at West Point will not be deemed to have perverted the designs of its founders, nor will it be thought that the public interests require that it should be abolished. The National Legislature will still cherish it by a parental and judicious legislation, adapted to make it more perfect, and to increase its capacity and facilities for accomplishing, in their fullest extent, the purposes of its creation."

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from the further consideration of this subject.

Cold Water for Mr Webster.—The National Gazette says—"it is anticipated that the Whig members of Congress will recommend, unanimously, to the people, some candidate as the successor of President Jackson, before or about the end of the present session. Their recommendation will go far to produce unanimity elsewhere."

Mr Calhoun, in his late speech in the Senate, avowed his intention of taking no part in the coming Presidential contest, in striving to elevate any candidate to the Chief Magistracy. The party to which he belonged, he said, was in a hopeless minority.

Judge White.—The Montgomery, (Al.) Advertiser, thus alludes to the nomination of Judge White:—

"Our State Legislature has recommended Judge White as a candidate for the Presidency. Will the people of Alabama sustain the recommendation? We believe that they will not, and that they were totally unprepared for such a result. We predict that they will yet at the ballot box veto the act. Such legislation was unequalled for, and is only calculated to create divisions in the republican ranks."

Accident.—The mail stage from this city to Greenfield via Petersham, was upset on Saturday afternoon, about a mile east of Lancaster village, in consequence of the road being overflowed by the Nashua river, to the depth of two feet. The two mail bags were taken from the water to the Lancaster post office, where it was ascertained that they were completely wet through, and that it was necessary to dry and enclose them in new wrappers. The freshest has done much damage in that vicinity; it has destroyed several bridges, and injured others to a considerable extent.

A letter to the Atlas, from New York, says that "the American Quarterly Review is about to be removed to this city for publication. Young Walsh of Philadelphia also removes here to conduct it. The Harpers, our everlasting publishers, have taken hold of the thing. I learn also that Washington Irving, Fenimore Cooper, Paulding, Halleck, Dekay, and many others, are to be inscribed on the list of contributors. It is expected that this new arrangement will in a few years run your North American off its legs."

The Messrs. Harpers announce a complete and uniform edition of all the writings of Mr Paulding, embracing Salmagundi, first and second parts—John Bull and Brother Jonathan—Letters from the South—The Backwoodsman—Old Times in the New World—John Bull in America—The Wise Men of Gotham—Tales of the Good Woman—The Chronicles of Gotham—New Pilgrim's Progress—The Dutchman's Fireside—Westward Ho!

Another chance for our friend Hill.—Mr Duffy, who is building the theatre at Buffalo, offers a silver cup, worth fifty dollars, for a poetical address, not less than 40 or more than 60 lines, to be delivered at the opening. All communications of the kind are to be directed to the editor of the Buffalo Journal by the first of May.

Tremont Theatre.—There was a very full house last evening to see Celeste. She played charmingly, and was enthusiastically applauded. The ladies were all in love with "the dear little fellow."

The bill providing for the payment of the French Spoils from 1793 to 1800, has passed the Senate, 25 to 22.

For the Boston Morning Post

Mr Editor.—Happening one evening into the hall of the Common Council, the contested election in Ward 3 came up, and, judging from the remarks which fell from some of the members, I should think the officers of the Ward guilty of gross illegalities and misdemeanors, and there may have been on the part of the officers unintentional errors. If the council are in all cases of contested election, to pry into all the language used during heated elections, and bring every trifling matter before them, and censure in unmerited language the conduct of the officers, I fear there will be few among us willing to serve in those capacities. Their labors, which at times are very arduous, are wholly gratuitous, and instead of deserving the censure, should have the thanks of the citizens. The election in this Ward, it is well known, was spirited on both sides—there was crimination and re-crimination, and unusual disturbances. The officers, being unable to complete their labors that evening, retired to make up their report; having counted the votes, and taken account of them on several sheets of paper, they then found errors which they had made during the press and crowd about them. At a subsequent meeting the true state of the vote was declared—this is an epitome of the transactions of the election in Ward 3.

But let us look into the motives which have induced the remonstrants to bring this matter before the public. At the first election there was no choice of Warden and Councilmen—the wigs, alias federalists, electing the other Ward officers by small majorities. At the second meeting, the Democracy of the Ward awoke, and returned their own men to the Council, and elected their Warden. This was a bitter pill to the Young Men's Committee of Safety, many of whom are in the Council. North End is in danger!—We must destroy this election, and give the wigs another chance and every means have been devised to bring it about. Dealers in hard-ware, tapes and bobbins, and retailers of the law, have been brought in requisition to effect their purpose, and if the same party spirit now actuates the Council which formerly did, when Mr Greene was deprived of the city printing because he was a Democrat, although his proposals were 20 per cent. lower than any other competitor—I say if the same spirit now prevails, our members may be deprived of their seats.

A Democrat of Ward 3.

POLICE COURT.

Sunday night exercises.—Thomas Cavens, John McCauley, Dennis McQueeney, and Thomas Carrigan—forming a savage group—were complained against for voluntarily agreeing to fight together, and, by consent, inflicting divers blows and bruises on each other. The battle commenced about 7 o'clock, on Sunday evening, in a cellar, in Congress street.

The complainant stated that when he entered the cellar, the four prisoners, and another man, were talking together, but soon exchanged challenges to fight, and began by removing obstacles in the premises, and capsizing the stove, and multiplying the looking-glass into a myriad of tiny mirrors. This done, they paired off, man to man, till the day-lights of two of them became darkened, when the lines were broken, and a general melee took place—the fifth man, in the meantime, acting independently of the others, and regulating the combat, by striking those that did not fight fair with a poker. The second witness said he should have gone into the cellar, and attempted to have quelled the affray, if it had not been for the peculiar dexterity with which No. 5 flourished the poker, which made him feel rather "pokerish" about venturing within reach of his "regulator." The combatants were covered with blood, and the witness never saw a more desperate conflict; the fight, he said, exceeded in ferocity, any rencounter that ever took place between the most savage wild beasts.

The bar-keeper of the cellar, whose face bore marks of "milling," was called up as a witness in the defence, and his memory was conveniently treacherous on the occasion; he remembered there was a sort of a set-to, but did not know "whether the byes were fighting in fun or in earnest;" nor did he see any one strike with a poker. The second witness was then re-called, to refresh the bar-keeper's recollection, and stated, that at first the barkeeper aforesaid appeared to be much delighted with the fight, and held the light to the belligerents, but when Mr Poker had performed sundry tunes on the bloody pates of the bruisers, he tried to get the poker out of his hand. The witness also observed that Mr Poker had some favorites among the party, upon whom he was particularly desirous of bestowing his iron favors; and that he always waited patiently till the right head turned up before he let fly. The way he did it was a caution to cripples, and an inimitable display of coolness in the midst of confusion more commendable. Poor Carrigan could only recollect "that he did not strike any person; but only got a blow with a poker, that's all."

The magistrate did not attempt to decide whom of the quartette was most or least to blame, but bound over the whole squad for trial before the Municipal Court.

Rebellion.—We learn from the Scioto Gazette, that a spirit of rebellion has broken out among the students of Lane Seminary, in Ohio, a theological school under the control of the Presbyterian Church in that State.—It appears that the students had become converts to the doctrines of the abolitionists, and being forbidden by their authority, to even mention the subject, they "waxed wroth," and "retired in disgust" from their Alma Mater. We presume the matter will end, as the famous "bread and butter rebellion," of Yale College did a few years ago—in smoke.—N. Y. Times.

A Philadelphia paper says, there is residing in that city a man who was one of the first sailors of the American revolution. He was taken prisoner and lodged on board the Jersey prison ship, and that when it came to his turn to be discharged, he put an American officer in his chest and conveyed him ashore in open day, while the sentinels and officers were on duty; had he been discovered, his life would have been the forfeit.

To show the rapid increase of periodical literature, Messrs Broaders & Hancock inform us that they have during the past week, issued 5000 copies of the various works for which they are agents. Among others, 500 copies of the FRANKLIN LIBRARY—which, by the way, contains Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii," have been sold. This certainly indicates a reading, and, of course, an enlightened community.—Eve. Gaz.

The following death is from a Liverpool paper:—"Yesterday, at his house in Walnut street, in his 80th year, General Freeman, highly respected for his abilities, various accomplishments, and amiable disposition. He was many years barrack-master in Ireland, served the whole of the revolutionary war in America, and was aid-de-camp to General Frazer, at Saratoga."

Female Hair Dressers are recommended in the Philadelphia papers for ladies. The pleasantest shave I ever had was from a pretty barberess, in France; but it was dangerous. "If you look at me so attentively I shall cut you—shut your eyes." At Sag Harbor the best barber in town some years ago was a woman.—Noah.

Incendiarism.—Some vill in set fire to St. Peter's church, in the township of Pikeland, Chester county, Pa. on the 20th inst. It was entirely destroyed, together with the plate and organ which cost $800. The building cost four or five thousand dollars. A reward of $250 is offered by the trustees of the congregation.

At a meeting of the common council of London, to address the king on the present alarming crisis, Mr Ashurst said the friends of Wellington used as an argument, that

He won the battle of Waterloo, Therefore he's fit to govern you.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Monday, Feb. 2.—In the House, an order was passed instructing the Secretary of the Commonwealth to lay before the House an abstract of the Poor returns from the several towns, and also the name, age and sex of each, and whether natives or foreigners.

Sundry petitions for various purposes presented, and severally referred.

A resolve for the payment for military services, was passed to a 3d reading.

Bill concerning the State Lunatic Hospital, passed to be enacted. On motion of Mr Sturges of Boston, the Boyden Iron bill was again taken up, and the discussion thereon continued till two o'clock, by Messrs Chapman, Sturges, Lunt, Watts, Rantoul, Thayer and Dorr. The House adjourned without taking any question thereon.

In the Senate, the President communicated a letter from the Reporter of Decisions in the S. J. Court, concerning the decision of said court on the petition of Jeduthan Wellington and others: laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

The remaining business of the Senate was unimportant.

The Baltimore Convention.—The Washington Globe after inviting the attention of its readers to the proceedings of a meeting of the Democratic members of the General Assembly of New Jersey, recommending the election of delegates in primary assemblies of the people, to repair to Baltimore on the 26th day of May next, for the purpose of co-operating with delegates appointed by the democracy of other States, in nominating candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, adds the following comments, with which the opinion of this journal, as they have been frequently expressed, fully accord.—N. Y. Post.

"We believe this the only practicable plan to produce union in the Republican party, and secure the election of a President and Vice President by the suffrages of the people. Concert on the part of those whose united strength has been indispensable to give success to the principles and measures of the present democratic administration, will be required to prevent the election from again devolving on the House of Representatives, and giving a Chief Magistracy to the country chosen by, and commanding the confidence of only a minority of the people. This would bring back all the evils which grew out of the election of General Jackson's immediate predecessor; which, by again producing universal dissatisfaction, would endanger the permanency of the Government and the Union. We trust, therefore, that the recommendation of the democratic members of the New Jersey Legislature will be cordially adopted by their brethren in every State of the Union."

The following gallant affair occurred at the great Conservative dinner in London, Dec. 23. It was after a large number of toasts had been drank, and speeches made.

The Duke of Wellington then rose and said—My Lord Mayor has permitted me to propose a toast, and I beg leave to propose—"The health of the Lady Mayoress" (cheers.) We are all greatly indebted to the Lord Mayor for inviting us here this day, and we have already expressed our gratitude to him for his hospitality, but we are particularly obliged to him for prevailing upon the Lady Mayoress to grace this assembly with her presence. In the presence of the Lady Mayoress I will not attempt to do more than to say to you that in my opinion she has shown herself to be worthy of her great station, and to be the model and example of her sex (cheers.)

The toast was drank with three times three.

The Lord Mayor briefly returned thanks. Notwithstanding the admitted superiority of the fairer part of the creation, in the arts of eloquence and persuasion, the Lady Mayoress shrunk from addressing so large a company, and therefore had deputed him to do so for her. He might say that she was deeply sensible of the high compliment that had been paid her, and that whatever lay in her power to promote the good old cause of King and Constitution would never be wanting (cheers.) The ladies then withdrew.

The Pennsylvania of Friday, says—"Miss Jarman performed Rosalind, on Wednesday evening, with her usual excellence, and was warmly received by the audience. We doubt whether the comedy was ever better played on our boards. The Rosalind, Jacques, Orlando, and Touchstone were sustained admirably, and were worthy of each other. Miss Jarman's visit to the literary emporium appears to have added new spirit to her performances."

Sentence of the Baltimore Rail Road Rioters.—Owen Murphy is to be hung—Terence Coil and Patrick Gallagher, found guilty of murder in the second degree, are to be confined eighteen years in the penitentiary—the first year their confinement will be solitary.

Sanguinary Duel in Brussels.—The Courier Belge contains the following:—"Public attention is engrossed with a duel which is to take place to-day, between Mr Hamilton, Secretary to the English Legation, and another Englishman, Mr Wellesley, in consequence of injurious expressions used by the latter respecting Mr Hamilton. These two gentlemen, who are to fight till one of them falls, (qui doit en battre le mort) are said to have each made their will before a notary of this city."

An Affair of Honor.—The schr Elizabeth Jane, which sailed hence, Dec. 20th, for Mobile, had the misfortune to offend a whale on the passage. The great offence of the ocean determined on such "personal satisfaction" as "is due from one gentleman to another." The schooner was carried off the field with a contusion in the shoulder, and has been brought back into port.—Jour. Com.

A Pretty Note of Acceptance.—Balzac sent to borrow four hundred crowns of Voltaire. His brother wit cheerfully complied, and taking the promissory note which the servant put into his hands, wrote on it thus—"I, the undersigned, acknowledge myself debtor to Mr Balzac in the sum of eight hundred crowns, for the pleasure he did me in borrowing four hundred of me." He then returned it to the servant to carry back to his master. "What are all Voltaire's finest letters (says a modern author) in comparison of such a note?"

Happiness and Wisdom.—There is this difference between happiness and wisdom—he that thinks himself the happiest man really is so; but he that thinks himself the wisest is generally the greatest fool.—Lacoe.

New Definition.—What is a dying establishment? said a little urchin to his mother. "It is a cholera hospital," replied the woman.

The Senate of Ohio have passed a bill prohibiting the circulation of notes of a less denomination than five dollars. The vote was twenty-three to eleven.

The Southern Mail arrived at half past 12 o'clock this morning.

The following letter, says the Globe, contains all the information we have received, relative to the Senatorial election in Virginia:—

RICHMOND, Va. Jan. 28, 1835.
1-2 past 5, P. M.

Dear Sir—After warm debating in the lower house to-day until about 4 P. M., they passed the resolution to go into the election of United States Senator, and sent a message to the Senate to that effect, where a discussion took place of about an hour, when a resolution was passed there to postpone it until to-morrow, and sent to the lower House and concurred in—so no election has yet taken place, but it is the general impression, that the election will certainly take place to-morrow.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate of the United States, on Thursday, Mr Benton submitted a resolution instructing the committee on Military Affairs to inquire into the expediency of increasing the appropriation for arming the fortifications of the United States. Mr Benton gave notice that he would the next day offer a joint resolution to repeal so much of the joint resolution of March 3d, 1819, as prescribes the manner of electing public officers, and so much of the joint resolution of 5th February, 1829, as amends the said resolution in relation to the manner of electing public printers.

The death of the Hon. Warren R. Davis, a Representative from South Carolina, was then announced by Mr Calhoun, and the resolution usual in such cases was passed.

In the House, the death of Mr Davis was announced by Mr Picken, of South Carolina, and the usual resolution for attending his funeral, &c. was passed.

[Mr Davis's funeral was to take place on Friday—on which day no business will be transacted by Congress.]

THE ONLY TRUE AND GENUINE.

Dr WILLIAM JUDKINS'S SPECIFIC OINTMENT.

White Swellings, Sore Legs and Ulcers, Glandular Tumors, Felons, Rheumatic Pains, Sprains and Bruises, Burns and Scalds, Inflammation in Women's Breasts, Glandular Swellings, old and fresh Wounds, Chilblains, Tetters, Piles, Ringworms, Eruptions of long standing and sore eyes.

Prepared only by JAMES S. GLASCOE, Cincinnati, who is duly authorized by Dr Judkins, as will appear on the bill of directions.

From the Hon J. Talliferro, member of Congress and member of the late convention.

Richmond, 9th Nov 1829.

Sir—It has been my wish for a considerable time, to communicate the good effect with which I have used your "Patent Specific Ointment." I have applied this ointment during the last four years, to every species of tumor and wound without failure to produce a cure in every instance. I consider it the most decided and efficacious remedy in all cases of tumor, and the cause what it may, and I have found nothing so good for wounds of any description. It may be proper to add that the cure of a tumor called White Swelling, given over by the most distinguished physicians as incurable, and which they decided would, without amputation, prove fatal to the patient, was cured by my immediate notice, effected by the use of your ointment, and the patient is in the flesh, his limb affected by the tumor being restored to a perfect state of soundness. Also, that the leg of a man upwards of 80 years old, which had been wounded, and exhibited one dreadfully ulcerated surface from knee to foot, and which for more than two years had been considered incurable, was effectually cured by the application of this ointment. I mention these two cases which fell under my immediate notice and management, as a decided evidence of the efficacy of this remedy in cases of tumor and of ulcers. I have experienced as decidedly the good effect of this remedy in the cure of felons and every species of sore eye, and in addition to the above cases it may be proper to state what I know of its sure effects as a remedy in all cases of scrofulous tumor. A most violent and hopeless case of this description occurred in a servant of my own. It had baffled the most skillful medical treatment, but was subdued by Judkins's ointment.

Dr Wm Judkins JOHN TALLIFERRO.

From the Hon J. Coke, member of the House of Representatives in Congress.

Sir—My son having been afflicted for five years with white swelling, and having applied every remedy recommended by the most eminent physicians within my reach, without success, I at length procured one jug of Dr Judkins's patent specific ointment, and made the application according to the directions accompanying the ointment; and state to the benefit of the afflicted, that he is now cured, and is perfectly well.

My son has enjoyed good health ever since. I have no doubt, that to the ointment alone he is indebted as nothing else was used for more than nine months before the application of the ointment.

Respectfully, JOHN COKE.

Many other certificates may be examined on the bill of directions.

For sale by LOWE & REED, 24 Merchants' Row. Price 50 cents.

The outside wrapper to each pot is signed James S. GLASCOE. Sawley-FMS
